Fremont & Wallingford

ORIGINALLY A SEPARATE CITY and annexed to Seattle in 1891, Fremont is a neighborhood in Seattle named after the city in Nebraska of the same name. The neighborhood's main thoroughfares are Fremont and Aurora Avenues North (north and southbound) and North 46th, 45th, 36th, and 34th Streets (east and westbound). The Aurora Bridge carries Aurora Avenue (State Route 99) over the Ship Canal to the top of Queen Anne Hill, and the Fremont Bridge carries Fremont Avenue over the canal to the hill's base.

Located on the northern edge of the Lake Washington Ship Canal, Fremont is a neighborhood with a long history as a family-oriented, residential but working class area filled with idiosyncratic individuals. It's the self-proclaimed "Center of the Universe" and features a bohemian, offbeat lifestyle.

The neighborhood is often characterized by its quirky public art: the Troll under the Aurora Bridge who clasps a Volkswagen Bug; a seven-ton statue of Lenin that is perpetually for sale; a rocket built into the side of a building; and dinosaur topiaries that once graced the roof of Pacific Science Center.

The Fremont Sunday Market is a highlight for locals and visitors, with goodies such as wood oven-baked pizzas, fresh fruits or crepes. On sunny days, grab the makings for a picnic at PCC Natural Market, and enjoy it while watching kayakers glide down the Ship Canal.

While Fremont has historically been a working-class neighborhood, industry over time has shifted from sawmills and manufacturing to high-tech businesses. The neighborhood is home to campuses for Adobe Systems, Tableau, Google and many small tech companies. But Fremont's manufacturing sector is still in operation, which can be seen from the Burke Gilman Trail. The combination of manufacturing and tech has created a diverse community with a great mix of old and new architecture.

WALLINGFORD IS LOCATED at the southern edge of Green Lake in North Seattle, and overlooks the mouth of Portage Bay with spectacular views over Lake Union to downtown Seattle. Wallingford district is within minutes of many of Seattle's most popular attractions and shopping areas, nestled between Fremont and the University District.

The 90-acre Woodland Park lies just north of Wallingford's northern border, and comprises of the well-known Woodland Zoo, a miniature golf range, a picnic area and trails.

Gas Works Park, in South Wallingford, reflects this area's eclectic regard for the environment. Overlooking Lake Union, the 19-acre park is home to a former gas manufacturing plant that was closed down in 1956. The old compressor building and adjoining chimneys have been preserved as part of the recreational area. There is a children's park area, as well as a kite-flying hill on site.

Northeast Pacific Street connects Wallingford to the University of Washington (UW), a world-class research institution that includes schools of Medicine, Public Health, Social Work, Public Affairs, Business and Law. UW brings visitors to the area with its PAC-12 sports teams and cultural institutions including the Henry Art Gallery, the Jacob Lawrence Gallery, the Burke Museum, Meany Center for the Arts and Jones Playhouse. The University District also provides leading edge medical services through the University of Washington Medical Center and UW Physicians clinics.
